February Newsletter

The ladies have all been taking advantage of the mild winter weather by going for walks on nice days. They enjoy getting out in the fresh air and getting out and about around the neighborhood. They have all continued to participate in Jesus Cares and like being able to be a part of their church community.

Vicki had some fun outings this month. She had a great time shopping and going out to eat at King's Place in Miesville, MN. She enjoyed a world-famous burger and fries and of course good company. Vicki continues to enjoy visits from family and talking with them on the phone.

Catherine continued to attend the Aktion Club meetings and church regularly. She had a nice visit with Mary and liked catching up with friends and family on the phone. She had a great time celebrating multiple birthdays this past month. She celebrated her friends at Riverboat Lanes where they were able to bowl and share a delicious meal. She has continued to express her creativity through her paintings and decorated the house with her beautiful art.

Charlie has also participated in the Aktion Club meetings. It has been a great way for her to spend time with friends, learn, and give back to her community. She has enjoyed time spent at home with family and talking with them daily on the phone. Charlie had a great time going out to eat and taking a walk around Wabasha.

Patricia has had an eventful month with outings and visits from friends and family. She has continued to attend church and enjoys being involved in her church community. She had a great time celebrating her brother's birthday at the house when her family came for a visit. She has also enjoyed a few visits to the farm.

This newsletter segment will hopefully help you learn more about Great River Homes, Inc. Here, we'll discuss agency processes, things that affect us, and ways you can help.

Cleary defined boundaries are vital for establishing mutual understanding and maintaining harmonious relationships. Many of us are familiar with the fact that the Rio Grande River forms much of the boundary between Mexico and the Texas. What many of us in the Midwest may not realize is that due to flooding and erosion, the course of the Rio Grande River has often changed over the decades. One of the more significant changes in the course of the river led to more than 600 acres of Mexico suddenly being located on the American side of the Rio Grande. The ever-changing course of the Rio Grande has led to confusion regarding boundaries and associated disagreement between the two nations.

What is true geographically and politically is also true in human services; Clearly defined professional boundaries are vital for establishing mutual understanding and maintaining harmonious relationships. Team members strive to maintain clear and consistent professional boundaries as they interact with and support Vicki, Catherine, Charlie, Patricia. There are many factors team members need to consider as they maintain professional boundaries including sharing of personal information, use of nicknames, types and purpose of touch, tone of voice, avoiding keeping secrets, accepting gifts and favors from individuals, clothing choices, avoiding spending unscheduled time with individuals, and providing behavior support in a non-emotional, professional manner. If professional boundaries are allowed to erode, confusion and associated disagreements will occur. "Be Friendly, but not a Friend" encapsulates the concept of professional boundaries.
